PARK TO BE OPEN TO TROUT FISHING

The National Park authorities have notified the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries that trout fishing in the streams of the Shenandoah National Park has been restored this year, after having been closed due to extreme drought during the last few years, according to G. W. Buller, chief of the Fish Division of the Commission.

The seasons, according to Guy Edwards, superintendent of Shenandoah National Park, will coincide with the trout season set by the Commission for trout fishing in the state generally. The size limit in Shenandoah National Park will be a minimum of nine inches, says Edwards. All taken under nine inches must be returned immediately. Many trout fishermen in the vinicity of the park will be pleased to learn that trout fishing will be restored. Natural baits will be prohibited. Only artificial flies or bugs and a single hook may be used.

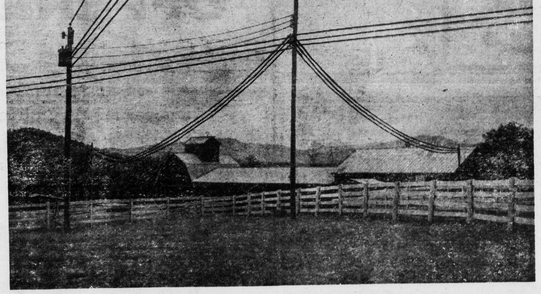
Is Your Farm Adequately Wired?



THINK ABOUT IT!
IS YOUR FARM ADEQUATELY WIRED?

Adequate farmstead wiring is essential to economical use of electricity for farm chore equipment. Regardless of the type of farming enterprise, there is always a continuing need for adequate electric service.

The best way to be assured of good service is proper wire size and good wiring layout.

Check with your Southside Electric Cooperative office when you are considering additions or changes in your farm wiring system.

THEN REMEMBER THIS:
HERE IS SOME FREE SERVICE FOR YOU:

The Southside Electric Cooperative furnishes the services of two qualified Electrical Advisors. Mr. M. G. Harrison and Mr. E. E. Satterwhite are on the staff of your Cooperative to help you with your electrical problems.

When you waste electricity you waste money. Let these men help you economize on your electric bill.

Remember, a postal card, or a letter, or just a phone call to the Southside Electric Cooperative will bring one of these men to your farm at NO cost to you.
